

Association of American Cancer Institutes Sustaining Membership Application

The Association of American Cancer Institutes (AACI) represents 103 leading academic cancer centers in the United States and Canada and is the foremost advocate for these centers.

AACI's mission is to promote the common interests of academic and freestanding cancer centers that are focused on the eradication of cancer through a comprehensive and multidisciplinary program of cancer research, treatment, patient care, prevention, education, and community outreach.

Individually, AACI member institutions are many things: patient-oriented, research-intensive, translationally adept, clinically superb, and locally powerful. Working together through AACI, the centers promote their common interests by leveraging each institution's strengths to create a stronger whole.

Sustaining Membership

Sustaining membership in AACI is offered to like-minded cancer-related organizations with missions complementary to AACI's.

As a sustaining member, you can interact with decision makers from AACI's 103 member centers. Sustaining members are uniquely positioned to work with cancer center leadership to help solve shared problems and affect national cancer policy. Working collaboratively, we can more effectively inform public officials about the importance of making cancer a national priority. The cancer center network recognizes the fight against cancer is as much a matter of public policy as scientific discovery.

Criteria

Organizations eligible for sustaining membership must be not-for-profit and meet one or more of the following criteria:

- Represent and support the educational and professional development of clinical oncology health professionals and oncology researchers
- Be dedicated to clinical and/or basic research with a strong focus on cancer
- Be dedicated to public education related to cancer

Benefits

Sustaining members will be able to partner with AACI and our member cancer centers to make cancer a national priority, influence the national cancer program, and contribute to public education by supporting cancer center outreach efforts in their communities. Sustaining members will be invited to participate in AACI-sponsored meetings, initiatives, and forums and will have the opportunity to meet annually with AACI leadership. The member registration rate for AACI's annual meetings will be available to all representatives from sustaining member institutions.

Dues

Current annual sustaining membership dues are $5,000.
